We are witnessing unprecedented times never seen before in the history of humanity. This pandemic has taken the world by surprise, and no one visualized the impact and scale of devastation it will cause. I am writing this to wish you all a safe and good health.

First of all, I want to thank our readers and contributors for patronizing the journal of Clinical Imaging Science and their continued support.

Journal of Clinical Imaging Science is doing well because of its dedicated reviewers and editorial board members who, despite all hardships, are still contributing to the progress of science by reviewing the manuscripts in a timely fashion. It is because of you that Journal of Clinical Imaging Science exists; please accept a big thank you from all of us at the editorial office of the Journal of Clinical Imaging Science.

It would not be possible to keep publishing regularly high-quality content without the devoted team of Scientific Scholar (<https://scientificscholar.com>) – our publisher under the able leadership of Pritesh Sheth, who is the CEO of the company.

There are various sources of news outlet in the era of social media. I would request everyone to follow the CDC guidelines available at <https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/index.html> pertaining to Covid-19 infection. Please follow social distancing and frequent hand washing.
